

I oppose loosening the rules designed to promote and protect diversity of media ownership. These rules were adopted to ensure that the public would receive a diverse range of viewpoints from the media, and not simply the opinions of a handful of media conglomerates.

The media is already too concentrated. Any moves to further weaken the few rules we have to promote diversity would be criminal. The continued growth of media corporations should not be an item of concern for the FCC. Please, rather than removing these restrictions you should add greater diversity requirements and break up some of these large corporations, such as Clear Channel Communications.
